DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment and Arguments

1. With respect to the objection to the drawings; the objections to Claims 5 and 18; and the rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph of Claims 13, 18, and 26, and to Claim 1 for the phrase "generally over the surface"; Applicant's amendment filed October 3, 2005, has been fully considered and is persuasive. The objections and rejections indicated have been withdrawn. As to the rejection of under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph for the phrase "generally the entire surface area", this rejection is maintained for the same reasons as previously stated in the Office Action mailed July 11, 2005.

2. The rejections under 35 USC 103(a) of Claims 2, 3, and 16 are withdrawn as moot, due to the cancellation of these claims. As to the rejection of Claims 1, 4-15, and 17-27 under 35 USC 103, Applicant's arguments filed October 3, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

3. In response to applicant's argument that the EP '209 publication fails to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., wings which are not integral and are separate from each other; and each wing has several possible positions for attachment to the garment facing side of the absorbent article, in at least some of which positions the wings differ in their spacing from each other in a transverse and a longitudinal direction, as compared to their spacing in other positions) are not recited in the rejected claims. As indicated in the Office Action mailed July 11, 2005, "variably positionable on and removably attachable to the entirety of the garment facing side" does not claim any particular structure, while 35 USC 112, 6th paragraph, has not been invoked. Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

4. In addition to the above, the following new ground of rejection is made. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent Publication No. 2002/0143311 A1 to Brisebois in view of U.S. Patent No. 5,300,058 to Goulait et al.

5. For Claim 1, Brisebois shows an absorbent article for placement in the crotch region of an undergarment, having a generally liquid permeable top cover, a generally liquid impermeable baffle, and an absorbent structure disposed between the top cover and the baffle (Figs. 1, 6, and 7, paragraphs 1, 50-52, 70, 77, 80, 88). The article has a pair of wings, each said wing removably attachable to a garment facing side of the absorbent article, the wings including laterally extending flap portions having dimensions so as to at least partially encircle the crotch portion of the undergarment (the wings are panty liners 20; see Figs. 6 and 7, and paragraphs 86-88).

6. Brisebois does not teach the garment facing side of the absorbent article comprising hook material, nor the body facing side of the wings comprising hook material. Brisebois does not expressly teach each wing being variably positionable and removably attachable; however, as indicated in the previous Office Action, the phrase "each said wing is variably positionable on and removably attachable to the entirety of the garment facing side of the absorbent article" does not claim any particular structure.

Art Unit: 3761

Goulait teaches a pattern of hook material on the garment facing sides of the absorbent article and the wings for attachment to an undergarment, as stated in the previous Office Action (Figs. 1, 2, 3, 3A, 3B, 7, 7A, and 7B). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the absorbent article of Brisebois to make the wings positionable anywhere on the garment facing side of the absorbent article; to have generally the entire surface area of the garment facing sides of the absorbent article and the wings present an overall pattern of hook material for attachment to the undergarment; to position the hook material on the garment facing sides of the absorbent article and the wings, and the hook compatible material on the body facing side of the wings. Doing so would enable the user to have a more secure attachment and more flexibility in positioning and attachment, as taught by Goulait.

7. Applicant's amendment and arguments necessitated the new ground of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

8. A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
